Among the late arrivals which we have not as ye jotted down, are ex-Governor Tallmadge of Wisconsin, the head of the conservatives, and who knows all about that letter to Col. Polk, in the summer of '44, and the Colonel's in reply, denied by Father Ritchie as having any existence, but which, with Col. Polk's assent, will be indubitably estattill this morning, when it was hinted at by one of the "knowing ones," Prosper M. Wetmore, your navy agent, was here, and gave a little private dinner, at which Mr. Marcy, and Mr. Bancrott, and Mr. Ritchie were present. They had champaign. "It may be all well enough," as Mrs. Caudle says, for Queen Victoria to start off travelling on Sunday, thus setting an example of disregard for the Sabbath for the benefit of her people, but we don't want our public functionaries to give any such precedents of bad taste as electioneering dinners on the Sabbath. It will never do.

Among other gentlemen arriving here within a few days past, are the Hon. Mr. Woodworth, member of the House of Representatives elect from New York State, Erastus Corning, Robert Temple, and Dr. Staats, of Albany, Col. Ogden of your city, and Gen. Eaton of Buffalo.

Hon. B. B. French, who did the active official duties of clerk for Col. McNulty, almost entirely during that part of the last session up to the Colonel's expulsion, and who succeeded the Colonel to the office by the unanimous vote of the House, is a candidate for re-election. It has yet to be tested whether the highest qualifications of a local candidate will outweigh the political considerations and influences of a candidate from some one of the States. Major French, showever, is a popular man, as well as an excellent clerk, and nothing but some conspicuous and uncompensated ex-member of Congress can beat him. Yet even this experiment conspicuous and uncompensated ex-member of Congress can beat him. Yet even this experiment may be tried.

The Court met pursuant to adjournment. Fresent, all the members, the Judge Advocate, and Lieutenant McLaughlin.

W. H. Wall. was called and sworn.

By the Juoge Advocate.—I am a merchant, and reside at Key West, Florids; I am at present a member of the Senate of Florida.

By Lieut McLaughin.—Lieutenant McLaughlin did not conciliate with me for the purpose of charging extravagant prices. I offered to purchase the houses on indian Key a second time, but did not offer an advance upon my first offer. I do not consider the houses on indian Key a second time, but did not offer an advance upon my first offer. I do not consider the houses themselves worth the amount I offered for them and the land; my offer was to purchase two of the buildings, including lands, in fee simple, for the sum of $8.000; the two buildings, I should suppose, would cost about $5.000 to erect them. [A table was then shown the witness, of the prices paid for lumber, by Lieut. McLaughlin, and, upon being asked concerning the rates charged for that article, answered, I consider the lumber low at the price named in the table; I deal a great led in lumber, and could not afford to deliver them at that price.] As a general rule, the wages paid for house-carpenters was $3 a day. The prices named in the table are lower than they can be obtained at Key West. The amount of goods sold by me to Leat. McLaughlin were the same I charged to other persons; I have had dealing with other departments of the government, and I refer you, for comparison, to those on file in the Treasury Department. The goods bought of me, and sold to the different vessels, were furnished upon a requisition signed by a commander of a vossel, and receipted for by the officer of the deck, and the bills were paid by Lieut. McLaughlin were the same I charged to other persons; I have had dealings with other ressels. Lieut. McLaughlin, who was in command of the school of doors; I think that building was painted; the hospital, I think, was whitewashed; I expected to get about an acre of land with the two buildings I offered to purchase; I intended to use the building occupied for a hospital as a store; the other building was to be used or occupied as a dwelling by the person who kept the store; the land I should consider worth about $3,000 for my purposes; rather than not get them at that time, if the title could have been perfected, I would have given perhaps $10,000 for them.

A. O. Dayron, fourth auditor, recalled.—[Several questions in writing having been submitted to him to get the required information in his office.] The first is not susceptible of answer. There was no separate appropriation for the year ending on the 30th June, 1842; the appropriations were made for the fiscal year, and the fiscal year, at that time, terminated on the 31st December, 1842; the appropriation ending on the 31st December, 1842; the appropriation ending on the 3lst December, 1842; the medicines and surgical instruments, hospital stores, and other expenses on account of the sick, in addition to the expended balance, if any, of former appropriations, was $30,000; as I have already stated that there was no separate appropriation for the year ending 30th June, 1842, and as this question related to such supposed appropriation, it is not susceptible of an answer.

By the Coust.—Two bills were handed the 4th Auditor, and he was asked to say which was the one paid to Mr. Carter. He replied, I think the one word "potatoes" is used after the "harrels." I think the question can be answered with more certainty by Mr. Etheridge; my impression upon the subject is, that I derived my information from him; I cannot say with certainty that I did; I cannot speak with any degree of positiveness; Mr. Dayton was asked frene was a duplicate of the other, and he answered that he thought he was. In one of them, however, there appeared to be an omission after the word "oarrels;" I think the one intended the error.

particularly. Immediately went to the 6th Auditor with this bill for the purpose of illustrating a view I had taken of the duties devolving upon the 4th Auditor by the act of Congress. I contended that it was the duty of that efficer to exercise a discretion over accounts whenever any extraordinary charges came under his notice. And I asked if he did not think that this item was a proper one for him to bring to the notice of the Secretary. He differed with me in my view of the case. After I had printed Lieut. McLaughlin's vouchers, he (Lieut. McL.) published that I had misstated his vouchers, by omitting the word "potatoes." I immediately called on the Auditor and asked him if he did not remember my calling his attention to the voucher, in which the word "potatoes." I did not occur. He said he did distinctly. At my request he sent for Mr. Etheridge, and asked him to bring the file of Lt. McL's. vouchers—it was brought, and upon examination, it appeared that the voucher No. 175 did contain the word "potatoes." The Auditor said this was net the voucher that Mr. Winder had, and asked him for the other. Mr. Etheridge brought it; and after several questions from the Auditor, Mr. Etheridge admitted that that voucher was brought to him by Lt. McL., at whose request he substituted it for the other on the file. I then requested the Auditor to put a private mark upon it by which he could know, it—he said that it was not necessary, as the facts were fully impressed upon his mind.

The witness went on to say that he had a statement to make in relation to Dr. Hasting's synopsis of the sick, which was in evidence before the court, that he had handed that paper to the Judge Advocate, and as the paper had been asserted to belong to the Navy Department and appeared as a part of a public document of Congress; it was proper for him to account for his possession of it; and besides, it had, in his opinion, an important bearing upon the case. The court after some conversation, consented that the witness might make an informal statem bearing upon the case. The court after some conversation, consented that the witness might raske an informal at statement, when they would determine whether it should be received as testimony. The witness then atted:

Statement, That Congress called upon the Secretary of the Navy for certain papers in relation to the Florida squadron; that certain copies of papers were sent up, and form Doc. 211, 3d session. 27th Congress. When this document came up to the Department, it was found that Dr. Hasting's synopsis, which had never been in the Department, was upon it. The Sacretary sent for me, and directed me to go up to the House of Representatives and ascertain how that paper came before them, and to get all the manuscripts. I went to the office of the Clerk of the House, and was informed that the papers were in the hands of the printer. I called there and obtained the papers, among them was this synopsis of Dr. Hastings.
When I returned to the Department, Lieut. McL. was there: I asked him if he knew how that paper came before the House? he said he had enclosed it in a letter to the Department, but upon reference to the "letter key," none such appeared. Here the matter was dropped until Mr. Henshaw came into office. Congress asked of him information in relation to that squadron. The witness here produced a voluminous collection of papers, which he said constituted the answer to this call of Congress.
He read from this a letter of Lieut. McLaughlin, dated 28th February, 1813, to the Chairman of the Committee of Expenditures, in which he says: I have the honor to enciose herewith a synopsis of the sick at Indian Key, from Sth Oct., 1811, to Sth July, 1812," Soc., which the witness said was a perfect description of this synopsis, in fact, a copy of its caption. The Court will observe the datelof this letter, viz. 28th February. The Secretary's letter enclosing the copies of the other papers was dated 31 March, 1843, three days after. The witness then turned to another part of the same papers and read from

The Canton races commence on Tuesday next, and the sporting gentry are already commencing to fock to the city. There has, heretofore, been some difficulty about obtaining the purses after they were won, but I perceive that it is now announced that the purse will be invariably hung up before the race. The race for the citizens plate, valued at $250, is to take place, on the first day, two mile heats, free of entrance.

The French Opera appear at the Front street theatre next week for a lew nights, commencing on Tuesday. They will doubtless attract large and fashionable audiences.

Margaret Catchpole, at the Front street, is about paying expenses, and the Museum continues to reap a rich harvest, being crowded nightly. Mr. Brougham, Miss Nelson, and Mr. and Mrs. Timm are connected with the company at this establishment.

Welsh, Mann and Delavan's Circus have been taking in, during the present week, at their pavilion, about $500 or $1000 per night, on an average. I believe they intend to remain a week longer.

I have never, at any previous time, known the whigs of Baltimore—the real staunch Henry Clay whigs—te be so depressed and broken down as they are at present. A few traitors in their own ranks have overturned the solid fabric which had so long withstood the assaults of the democraty, by forming a new party solely for their own personal aggrandisement and political advancement. So far, nativeism has nothing to point to as its trophies in this city, but democratic incumbents in offices that but for their defection might probably have been filled by their former political friends. The natives are despised and ridiculed by both whigs and democrats, for though their movements have invariably tended to benefit the latter, they detest them for their treachery—in other words, they like the treason but hate the traitor.

The great rape trials will shortly come on, when, doubtless, our city will be again in a furor of excitement. All kinds of rascality will be resorted to that may tend to clear the yo

THE MARKETS.—All the stock of flour on sale has been purchased this week for shipment, closing at $4.75 for City Mills, and $4.63 for Howard street; the car prices $4.50. The inspections for the past week comprise 9,885 barrels, and 431 half barrels wheat flour. There were also inspected 80 hids, and 232 barrels corn meal.

Grain—The last steamer's news from England has exerted an influence on this market so far as to put up wheat to 95 cents for red, and $1.10 for white, of prime qualities; and interior to fair and good in proportion; the better descriptions of red are mostly taken for shipment. The receipts of rye are light, but there is no material variation in prices, say 63 to 65 cents, according to quality. Corn has advanced, and at the time of making up this report, white is worth 55 to 56, and yellow $7$ to 58, the highest figures for strictly prime. Oats are worth 34 to 35 cents, which is also an advance.

By the above it will be seen that there is a slight gain in favor of the whigs since the Presidential election. In three of the precincts in Scriven county, the reported democratic majority is 105—two precincts to hear from.

Wisconsin —The Milucaukie Sentinel, of Friday week, gives the following returns of the delegate election in that Terrority. We compare with 1844, the only vote we have in detail:—

The foreign residents of this new and growing seaport,

The foreign residents of this new and growing seaport, and the planters in the vicinity, have frequently expressed a wish you would appoint an agent here for the distribution of your much sought for and interesting paper, the Weekly Herald, in order that they might have the earliest and most correct news from the U. States.

This interesting town is handsomely situated on the south side of the fine bayof Cardenas, being composed of a chain of small islands, that protect it from the north and east winds, which are the most prevalent, and has a beautiful appearance and good anchorage; is the resort of a number of vessels of all sizes, from the northern States, to load with sugar and molasses, as we have two railroads running through the centre of the island in different directions, pouring in their immense quantities of sugar, molasses, honey, wax, mahogany, and cedar of the finest quality.

The town is regularly laid out and built—some very costly edifices; the new stone church finishing, cost $80,000.

The inhabitants are composed of foreigners, from the different countries of Europe, and the United States, and form quite agay and genteel society. A Philharmonic Society has been very lately formed, and gives balls and sources twice a month, and well attended by the respectable families of the town, and the neighbouring planters, and is well conducted, with fine music, &c.

There are three steamers running between the cities of Matanzas and Havana, daily; also a daily mail from Havana and Matanzas. In short, every facility of communication.

This would be quite an agreeable place for invalids, from the Northern States, to spend the winter, as they would find every convenience to move about.

The cane crops bid fair to be large.

There were shipped from this port, of last year's crop, 25,334 hhds. molasses to the United States.

There is a report going the rounds which gained some credit, that there are several vessels now fitting out in Havana and other ports, as privateers, to be employed against the United Sta

Breswax.—This article is steady at 30 cents, with a moderate demand.

Breadstuffs.—The market to-day was a little more brisk than it was yesterday, and sales of Genesee and Michigan were made for England at $4 57½, Michigan is brisk at $4 51½ a 4 57. There is little or no demand for Southern; vessels for South America load at Richmond and Baltimore, consequently but very little comes to this market. Wheat is in fair demand, and the supply of a good article is quite moderate; southern sells at 90 cents. Rye, pretty lair demand for good, 70 cents being the average price. Corn is quite brisk, and not much in the market, say 60 a 61½. Oats, 40 cents, southern a little less.

Corros—The market is rather inactive; about 600 bales being the total sales, excepting a list of about 1100 bales Uplands, taken for Liverpool at full rates; generally, this week, the sales actually made have been small, although large transactions have been occasionally reported. The Liverpool buyers not feeling warranted in paying the present rates, the sales have been chiefly left to a few speculators, who believe in a very short crep. The large quantity of Flour, and other heavy freight going forward, has given employment to several ships, and enabled owners to obtain an advance on the previous rates for Cotton. INVISIBLE
WIG.
So closely resembles the real head of hair that sceptics and comnoisseurs have pronounced it the most perfect and extraordmary invention of the day. The great advantages of this novel and unique wig, is its being made without sewing or weaving, which causes its appearances so closely to resemble the natural hair, both in lightness and natural appearance, as to defy detection, its texture being so besutiful, so porous and so free, that in all cases of perspiration evaporation is unimpeded and the great evils of other wigs entirely avoided. The sceptic and composiseur are alike invited to inspect this novel and beautiful Wig, and the peculiar method of fitting the head, at the manufacturer's, A. C.
